THE STATE LIBRARIAN.

The Carson Free Lance says:

Some public comment has been made upon the subject of the State Librarian-ship, and the question has been asked by the public press "Who is State Librarian?" The Free Lance will not pretend to answer the question, but will offer a plain statement of the case and let others judge for themselves.

On the 31st of July, D. L. Bliss, one of the avaricious on the bond of ex-officio State Librarian Laughton, gave notice of withdrawal, (John R. King, the other bondsman, having removed from the State,) and under the law of 1867 it became necessary for Mr. Laughton to file another bond. The statute says:

"If any officer or person shall fail within ten days from the date of a personal service, to file a new or additional bond or undertaking the office or appointment of the person or officer so failing shall become vacant, and such officer or person shall forfeit his office or appointment, and the same shall be filled as in other cases of vacancy, and in manner provided by law."

Personal service of Mr. Bliss' notice of withdrawal was made upon Lieutenant Governor Laughton, and as he failed to file a new or additional bond, it appears to many that the office of State Librarian became vacant on the 10th of this month. Since then some surprise has been expressed that Governor Adams has taken no action in the matter. If the office is vacant it ought to be filled, either by the appointment of Mr. Laughton or of someone else.

In order that the complication of the case may be appreciated it must be remembered that a law was passed in 1883, making the Lieutenant Governor ex-officio State Librarian and Adjutant General of the State, with a salary fixed at $2,000 a year for performing the duties required in those offices. In the general appropriation bill of 1885, is the following item: "For salary of Lieutenant Governor, as ex-officio Adjutant General and ex-officio State Librarian, $5,400." Thus it will be seen that the two offices are joined together in the appropriation, and doubt is expressed as to whether it would be possible to segregate the pay so that a new man, if appointed, could draw any salary. About the only thing he could do would be to put his trust in the generosity of the next Legislature for a relief bill. In the meantime it would be a question whether Mr. Laughton could draw his full salary when not performing the duties of Librarian. These points are mentioned because in the event of an appointment they will probably come up for judicial settlement. Anyhow, it is not likely that Mr. Laughton will give up the office without an effort.

At present writing nothing definite can be stated with regard to the intention of Governor Adams in regard to the matter, but it is understood that he considers the office vacated by force of the statute. As soon as a decision is reached the Free Lance will lay the result before its readers, as this is a question of considerable public importance, and one that is likely to receive more than ordinary attention from the press and bar. As a legal nut for the lawyers to crack it may be regarded as decidedly tough.

The Scientific American says September bears witness to an active and stirring season among the members of the solar family, wherein the sun himself plays an important part. Two great planets, Jupiter and Uranus, as they reach conjunction disappear from the sun's eastern side to reappear on his western. Mercury flits between the earth and the sun at inferior conjunction, and oscillates to his extreme western limit or elongation, where early risers behold him for a short time before his fitful light is quenched in the sunbeams. The sun reaches the vernal equinox and equal day and night mark the passing hours, while he shines benignly over the earth from pole to pole. A favored few will behold a total eclipse of the sun's radiant face, and be filled with wonder and delight as the silvery corona starts into view and the rosy flames dart forth, while the stars appear in the darkened sky, and the face of nature is shrouded in funereal gloom. The moon is not behind the superior members of the family in the part she plays in the incidents of the month. She treats us to a partial eclipse and the occultation of a bright star. More than this, our fair satellite crowns the month with the harvest moon, when for several successive evenings the lesser orb rises in the eastern sky as soon as the sun disappears in the western, thus prolonging the day, flooding the earth with silvery light, and making it beautiful as a dream of the land where there is no night. There may be other planets combining more elements of natural beauty than this little world, when the sunset clouds linger in the west, and the harvest moon, rising majestically in the east, looks down upon a belt of earthly domain ripe for the harvest. If such fairy abodes exist in the great universe of space, we have no desire to visit them unless we can be equipped for the voyage with higher powers than we now possess for the appreciation of the transcendent scene.

Lamar at His Labors.

Washington Dispatch in Cleveland Plaindealer.

In the center of the room, seated at a square flat-topped desk, sat the most Democratic of all the Cabinet. Senator Lamar looked exactly like his picture. His hair is long, thin, and iron gray. He is now slightly bald—the bare spot being about the size of two silver dollars. His heavy mustaches and chin whiskers correspond to the pictures. The Secretary is not a tall man. He seems rather to be under the medium height. His face as he sat there to-day, surrounded by his most innumerable callers, who stood on all sides of his desk, completely shutting out every breath of air, bore that meek, subdued, patient and suffering expression which lingers give to the early Christian Martyrs. One after another of the stories were listened to and the case disposed of as far as possible. First a man, and then a woman, then another woman. Secretary Lamar is peculiarly considerate to ladies, and very many of them call on him with long and doleful stories. When we turned away my companion murmured: "Who would be a Cabinet Minister?"

BREVITIES

C. O. Stevenson was a passenger for the Bay last night.

Mrs. C. W. Jones returned yesterday morning from a visit to the Bay.

Remember that tickets for the Miners' Union picnic will be sold at the train-to-morrow morning.

There will be a called communication of Reno Lodge, No. 13, Saturday evening, Sept. 5 Third Degree.

The Weekly JOURNAL, issued to-day, is as good a number as usual, and contains the list of taxpayers of Washoe county in full.

Let the back premises and street gutters be cleared of all noisome rubbish and rot, if you want to preserve the health of the town.

Mrs. Alt has returned from her trip and will again hold her Saturday night soirees, commencing with this evening. Admission as usual, 50 cents.

At any time between 11 A. M. and 2 P. M. a nice hot soup lunch can be had at the Granite saloon, where also is kept the celebrated Pilsener and Pacific beer.

The Reno hose boys say they will not get up a team to run at the Miners' Union picnic to-morrow, but say they will be all ready to compete for the State Fair prizes next month.

DEMOCRATIC POSTMASTERS.

Some Recent Appointments for the Battle-Born State

The Sentinel says. The new Administration has been a good while getting around to Nevada. But it has at last started in and we may expect fair progress in the future. Only vacancies are now receiving attention. There is no tenure attaching to Postmasters of the fourth class, and as a consequence they are subject to removal at any time whether "offensive" or the meekest of pussians. The Presidential class—that is to say, all who receive more than $1,000 per annum—come within the Tenure of Office Act and hold commissions for four years. Under the President's rule these will be allowed to serve out their terms. There are but nine Presidential offices in this State, to-wit: Elko, Tuscarora, Winnemucca, Eureka, Austin, Reno, Virginia City, Gold Hill and Carson. Two or three of these may have dropped out by the last adjustment of salaries, which we have not at hand. Through letters yesterday received by the editor of the Sentinel, from First Assistant Postmaster General Stevenson, it is learned that the first batch of Democratic Postmasters for Nevada has just been appointed. Another installment may be expected at an early day and so on until all are filled below the Presidential grade. The list at hand embraces the following: M. Schwartz, Columbus, Esmeralda county, vice D. Fowler, resigned; L. S. Elwell, Gardnerville, Douglas county, vice Lawrence Gilman, resigned; John Desmond, Haas, Humboldt county, vice Mary Haas, declined; J. R. Henry, Skelton, Elko county, vice N. V. Padcock, resigned; Helen M. Bock, Midas, Nye county, vice Jennie Russell, resigned; David Lindsay, Huntington, Elko county, vice Joseph Crawford, resigned; David Cox, Overton, Lincoln county, vice Julia Cox, resigned. Vacancies exist at Pioche, Hamilton, Ward, Halleck, Palisade, Silver City and several other minor places which will be filled with Democrats as soon as the wishes of the people can be learned and communicated to the Department at Washington.

The State Orphan.

Superintendent Gus Williams of the State Orphan's Home, at Carson, says there are now fifty-three children in that institution, twenty-eight boys and twenty-five girls. Generally speaking, they are tractable and well behaved, but there are a few really bright, intelligent children among them. This, however, is not to be wondered at, considering the matter of their parentage and early youthful disadvantages. Few or none of them are fond of their school and desirous of learning, but most of them would rather run away if they had the chance.

So-so Soap.

It stands unrivalled. San Francisco Soap Co.'s Pale Savon for washing, and all household purposes, is the best and most economical manufactured.

THE SILVER STATE.

An Interesting Review of the Condition of Mining and Agriculture in Nevada—A Prosperous State—Irrigation and its Results

The following letter from Thomas Magee, the well-known real estate agent, appears in the San Francisco Bulletin of September 1st

LOVE PRIZE, August 25.

After one has traversed Nevada from east to west, as I once did slowly in the overland stage, and from north to south, as I have just done on the Carson and Colorado Railroad, the thought arises whether Nevada would not now be richer and her people happier if the State had the surplus rain which Oregon could spare than with the Comstock lode and all the unsurpassed wealth which has been taken from it, and which has made the State the crown jewel of the Union in a mineral sense. Nevada's best known gold and silver deposits are in eclipse at present, as they are throughout all mining sections. This is true not only of the Comstock lode, but of the mines of White Pine, Candelaria, Reese River, Eureka and other formerly celebrated treasure houses of the State. Except an increase in cattle, comparatively little has lately been done toward creating work and wealth in any direction. State industry at present is not active, yet it must not be thought that the State is in a bad way. There is no State debt, but on the contrary there is $900,000 in United States and State bonds in its treasury. An average of about 20,000 acres of land are being sold monthly by the State, principally to cattlemen. It is true, but all of the same will not be used for grazing purposes only. A good portion must be cultivated for grain and hay to supply home wants. The exceedingly liberal land law of the State enables purchasers of land to pay twenty-five cents per acre down, the balance in ten annual payments with interest at six per cent. per annum. The State has nearly 2,000,000 acres of land for sale, in quantities to suit applicants. This is a fine showing from a State in which it is maliciously said there have come no Representatives or Senators but from one well-known and most influential family—that of United States gold coin. Most of the land of the State is lying unimproved to water, and is therefore solitary, very largely parched, barren and burnt up. Between the most of the soil of the State and the sun there is no treaty of amity or fruitfulness. The sun pours one eternal daily fire on it, bringing out very largely only salts, soda, borax and bitterness—all included under the general name of alkali. If Nevada had as ample a rainfall as North Carolina, it would be, with its constant succession of mountain ranges and intervening valleys, the most picturesque State in the Union. As it is, irrigation must be largely depended upon in agriculture. Nevada's water resources for irrigation have yet been but scantily utilized. There is no reason whatever why this should be so. In California the general public may look with unfriendly eyes on the possible appropriation for irrigation of all the waters of the Kern, King, Tuolumne and San Joaquin rivers, because such appropriation may finally affect the latter (the main stream) as a navigable river, but none of Nevada's rivers are used for navigation, and, if not appropriated for irrigation, they finally nearly all terminate in "sinks," salinity and bitterness, as in Owens Lake, California, which is so impregnated with alkali (mainly soda) that fish cannot live therein.

EVAPORATING THE WATERS OF OWENS LAKE.

A company of Nevadans has lately taken up under the Placer Land Act the entire surface of Owens Lake, twenty miles long by ten miles wide. Vats are being excavated along its level shores, into which, by steam power, the water is pumped from the lake. The hot sun of cloudless days brings about rapid evaporation, leaving in the bottom of the vats carbonate of soda. The company believe that it will soon not only astonish the natives, but the outside world, with its output of carbonate of soda.

EFFECTS OF IRRIGATION.

The Truckee, Carson and Walker rivers have been largely, but not yet by any means wholly, appropriated for irrigation. Between Reno and Carson the precious effects of water and irrigation are seen. The soil has an ashy and barren appearance, but being made up largely of the wash from surrounding mountains, it has much strength and fertility. The change is great since I was last over that route. Fields of green alfalfa and ripening grain are to be seen very frequently, and a more welcome rest and refreshment to the eye from surrounding desolation it would be hard to find. The alfalfa is a deep green, tinged with purple—a green that the eye delights in, and the memory will not let fade out. Three crops of this alfalfa are gathered in a year. In the Carson and Washoe Valleys timothy hay has become so celebrated for its fine quality and stock-strengthening elements that both Governor Stanford and J. B. Haggin have been buying it largely for their finest racing stock. Mr. Haggin's agent this year bought seventy-five tons of this hay. He expressed the belief that Haggin's horse, Tyrant, was lately beaten at the East, after winning so many speed laurels there, because the Carson Valley timothy hay on which he had been fed ran out at a critical time. Further south, along the Walker river, there are some fine irrigated farms, though as yet there has been comparatively little done in the use of the waters of that river.

At the terminus of the great Nevada Valley, before it runs into utter sandy barrenness and aridity, there is the great Owens River Valley, which is about seventy-five miles long and five to ten miles wide. If it be said that no depression is worthy of the name of valley, in the higher sense, in which there is nothing but sagebrush and barrenness, one has only, in answer, to see these fields of sagebrush when transferred by water in Owens Valley. There are few if any more productive farms on the coast. Forty-five bushels of wheat, three and a half tons of timothy hay, three crops of alfalfa, five crops of corn and sorghum, and in the way of fruit excellent apples, peaches, plums and grapes, and as fat cattle and hogs as are on the coast may be found here. There is still unused water in Owens river for the irrigation of 75,000 or 100,000 more acres of desert land. It is said that the land can be taken up under the Desert Land Act in large parcels. If so there may be much money in its reclamation even for cattle. The drawbacks, however, to agricultural progress in Walker and Owens Valleys, just now, particularly in the latter, is that there is no market for the farmer's produce. Formerly he had a fine market at Bodie, Candelaria, Cerro Gordo and other mining regions, but now little is being done at Bodie, Candelaria or the great base metal region of Cerro Gordo, because silver is at a discount and lead is exceedingly low.

NEED OF RAILROAD EXTENSION.

The great outlook for Owens Valley and the farmers in the extension of the Carson and Colorado Road 110 miles further south to Mohave, on the Southern Pacific Road. The hay, grain, meat and other products of the valley could then be shipped to a profitable market in Arizona and New Mexico, a monopoly of which business is now enjoyed by Southern California. This monopoly has done much to make the prosperous times in Los Angeles and other southern counties have enjoyed for the past four years. There is not at present, however, any probability that the Carson and Colorado Road will be thus extended. The result is that, there being little sale for farm produce in Owens River Valley, the best improved farms there are dull of sale, and can now be bought for $10 to $15 an acre. The Carson and Colorado Road carries in supplies to Southern Nevada at low rates, but, of course, it cannot carry out farm products 300 miles to California (which would, besides, be carrying coals to Newcastle), at a rate that would leave any profit to the farmers. The Central Pacific Railroad makes, and probably wisely makes, a prohibitory tariff on California agricultural supplies entering Nevada, so as to protect the farmers of the latter State from competition with those of California, but, meantime, from all points between Ogden and Truckee the railroad charges Nevada freight $1 per 100 pounds more than is charged on through freight for the much longer haul to Sacramento or San Francisco. The Central Pacific Road vet-nurses Nevada farmers and gives them a low rate on all articles they can ship east or west, but it still heavily bleeds the State on goods coming in from the East. California and San Francisco are, perhaps, thereby somewhat benefited, but how Nevada likes the system is another question. There is no competing road and no water ways, and when Nevada kicks, the railroad folks simply hold her nose and pour the freight draught down her throat against her will, in the same firm but forcible way that our nurses in resisting childhood smoothed the route of corrective castor oil doses on the way to our fevered stomachs.

THOMAS MAGEE.

Matters at Candelaria.

A private letter received from Thomas Clarke, a former resident of Virginia City, dated at Candelaria, Tuesday, September 1, says there is no prospect of the difficulty being settled between the miners and the management of the Mt. Diablo and Holmes mines, the miners having determined not to allow any one to work under the ground for less than $3.50 per day. About 25 miners agreed with the superintendent to go to work for three dollars per day, but were prevented from doing so by members of the Union. Mr. Clarke further states that the shooting on Sunday grew out of the dispute about wages.

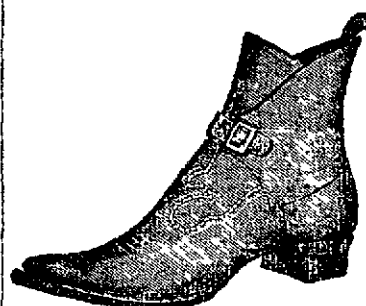

A Good Appointment.

W. H. Havenor, who served the State so well at the New Orleans Exposition, has been appointed Commissioner for Nevada at the forthcoming expositions at New Orleans and London. This is a merited tribute to efficient service.

Pierce Evans and Ed. Clarke departed yesterday morning on a trip to Long Valley.
